Integration Week 2.

1. Create a webpage template
2. Save as template.html then resave as index.html

Note: the homepage of a website should always be named index.html

Create a page and save as webHosting.html

<h3>Definition of different types of web servers.</h3>

Below is a definition of the different types of web servers that can be found in a data centre.

        <h3>Shared</h3>
        Information about this type of server

        <h3>Co-location</h3>
        Information about this type of server

        <h3>VPS</h3>
        Information about this type of server

        <h3>Dedicated</h3>
        Information about this type of server

<h3>Specifications about the Web Host I researched.</h3>

Below are the specifications for the plan I chose from xxxx Web Hosting.

1. Specifications about the plan
    a. Web Hosting company name
    b. Plan name
    c. Bandwidth
    d. Disk space
    e. Concurrent users
    f. Control panel (which type)
    g. Cost of the plan
    h. Type of hosting (shared, co-location, dedicated)
2. Software versions
    a. Linux

    b. Apache
    c. PHP
    d. MySql
    e. Backup/restore
3. Server configuration including
    a. CPU
    b. RAM
    c. Hard drive
    d. UPS
4. Support
    a. Do they have a good reputation
5. Conclusion. Why you chose this web hosting provider over others

<h3>Data centres in Australia including</h3>

    a. Any environmentally sustainable practices
    b. Location
    c. Specifications advertised